“Flight of Lights is a safe, free, family-friendly annual spring tradition,” said County Executive Joe Parisi. “The airport not only offers great destinations for people who are flying, but also provides a fun destination for residents who will be enjoying spring break at home,” he said.

“Flight of Lights” features six different light displays along the route including tributes to first responders; the medical community; Wisconsin sports; animals and nature; tropical and nautical; and some favorite destinations. Vehicles can enter the “Flight of Lights” route via International Lane in Madison. In addition, this year’s show has even more lights throughout the drive, including fully-illuminated industrial vehicles and equipment.
